Receive responses from customers

Updated: Mar 3, 2026

After receiving single- or multi-product messages, WhatsApp users can ask for more information about a product or place an order. These actions are communicated via the messages webhook.

Sent message status

Sent message statuses (sent, delivered, read) are described in status messages webhooks.

Asking for information

Whenever a WhatsApp user receives a single- or multi-product message, they can ask for more information by sending you a text message in an existing WhatsApp thread, or by tapping a Message business or Message button when viewing a specific product.

Messages sent after tapping a Message business or Message button are described in text messages webhooks and a `context` property will be included, whose value is an object describing the product the user was viewing when they tapped the button.

Orders

When a WhatsApp user adds one or more products to their WhatsApp shopping cart and places an order, the order messages webhook is triggered, describing the contents of the order. Use the order contents to fulfill the order.
